

Fain would I change that note (II2)

8

Fain would I change that note to which fond love hath charmed me

8

Long long to sing by rote fancying that that harmed me

17

Yet when this thought doth come Love is the perfect

22

summe of all delight I have no other choice

28

either for pen or voice to sing or write